THE No. 182.

MARYLAND GAZETTE,

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtic.

WEDNESDAY, October 19, 1748.

VIENNA, July 24, N. S.

AS the reſtitution of the Low Countries depends in ſome ſort upon the evacuation of the duchies of Parma, Placentia, and Guaſtalla, the court has ſent orders to count Brown to make the neceſſary preparations, that this evacuation may ſuffer no delay, but may be made in the time agreed upon. It has alſo given orders to adjuſt as ſoon as poſſible the differences which ſubſiſt between this court and the republic of Genoa, as well in reſpect to the Auſtrian priſoners who are in that capital, as in regard to the pretenſions on both ſides, to the end that nothing may obſtruct the execution of what ſhall have been ſtipulated at Aix.

Hanover, July 28, N. S. The king has been pleaſed to appoint ſir Thomas Robinſon, his majeſty's miniſter plenipotentiary at the court of Vienna, to be joint plenipotentiary with the earl of Sandwich, at the congreſs at Aix la Chapelle. And alſo to appoint Richard Leveſon Gower, and Edward Wortley Montague, to execute the office of his majeſty's ſecretary at the ſaid congreſs.

Aix la Chapelle, July 26. On the 23d inſt. being juſt 12 weeks after the preliminaries were ſigned, the French cavalry began to move out of the conquer'd countries, the entire evacuation of which is to be made by the middle of Auguſt, and the places belonging to the Dutch reſtored. As to the Auſtrian Netherlands, news is expected of the evacuation of Parma and Placentia, in order to fix the time of their reſtitution; but this, 'tis thought, will be in a fortnight, or three weeks, at fartheſt.

Bruſſels, July 31, N. S. The ducheſs of Newcaſtle paſſed through this city incog. in her way to Hanover: As ſoon, however, as count Saxe was informed thereof, his ſerene highneſs ſent expreſſes to Mechlin and Antwerp, with orders to receive that lady there with all the honours that were uſually given, on the like occaſion, to perſons of the firſt diſtinction.

Hanover, July 18. The duke of Newcaſtle makes a great figure here, and has a very numerous train. All his liveries, they ſay, coſt at leaſt 70 l. each; and he has brought with him his magnificent ſervice of gold plate, which is ſaid to be the richeſt in all Europe, being valued at 400,000 l. ſterling, and is made hereditary in his family, and not to be alienated on any pretext whatſoever.

Hague, July 29. Some particular letters mention a propoſal ſaid to be made, by which the reverſion of a penſion, now enjoyed by Staniſlaus king of Poland, duke of Lorrain, will be granted to the STUART family for it's future ſubſiſtence, without being further burthenſome to the court of Rome, which for forty years paſt has contributed largely to the ſupport of that family.

Poſnania, July 10. According to the advices which we have received concerning the fire which happened at Vilna, the inhabitants might eaſily have extinguiſh'd it at it's beginning; but the hatred which they bore to the Jews, amongſt whom it began, prevented them from exerting themſelves 'til it was too late: For the flames having communicated themſelves to the cathedral church of the Greeks, a violent high wind aroſe, which carried the fire into ſeveral ſtreets at once; this in ſhort occaſioned ſuch deſolation, 10 churches, together with ſeveral religious houſes, and above 20 magnificent palaces, were reduced to aſhes; as was likewiſe the quarter of the merchants, together with their merchandize. More than 300 inhabitants periſhed in the flames, and were buried under the ruins. This year, ſince the month of May, it is remarked, fires have been very fatal to this kingdom [Poland]; ſince not only the great city of Mohilow, upon the frontiers of Ruſſia, a part of the domains of the crown, has been reduced to aſhes, but the large city of Trocki, and the cities of Poloczka, Jaroſlow, and Poſnania, have greatly ſuffered by fire.

Dreſden, July 15. There is an account of a terrible fire which happened the 30th ult. in the town of Ponig, and which conſumed a great number of houſes. The laſt letters from Warſaw brought a full detail of the ravage made by the late fire at Vilna, the capital of Lithuarid; where the flames have conſumed 12 churches, 4 convents, and 2364 houſes; and 313 perſons periſhed.

Aix la Chapelle, July 21 The reſtitution of the ſeveral places in Flanders will take place next month; and, 'tis ſaid, will be begun by Bergen op zoom and Dutch Flanders; after which they will proceed to the evacuation of the Auſtrian Low Countries; but 'tis aſſured, that his moſt Chriſtian majeſty will keep two or three fortreſſes there, 'til the court of France receives advice of the reſtitution of Cape Breton.

Extract of a private Letter from Paris, July 19.

"We have three great projects upon the carpet;—one of which is the repairing and reſtoring our marine; and in reſpect to this, the count de Maurepas, and thoſe who act under him, are moſt indefatigable in their endeavours. They have not only taken pains to procure the moſt expert workmen for our yards, that we may be ſpeedily in a condition to put a ſmall ſquadron to ſea of new ſhips; but have procured others alſo to be built in much greater number, in Sweden and elſewhere, of which 30 will arrive in our ports by the end of September at fartheſt. They have alſo taken the moſt effectual ſtep for procuring ſeamen from all nations, in order, as is generally imagined here, to put three conſiderable fleets to ſea as ſoon as the ſeaſon will permit. The firſt of theſe will be ſent to Canada, and to take poſſeſſion of Cape Breton, upon the concluſion of a peace, and will carry engineers to repair, as well as a garriſon to defend that fortreſs, with naval and military ſtores for that ſervice. The ſecond is deſigned for the iſlands, where we are ſenſible that proviſions, the utenſils requiſite for plantations, as well as all the other neceſſaries and conveniencies of life, are exceſſively ſcarce, or rather entirely exhauſted; ſo that were it not for ſuch a plentiful as well as unexpected ſupply, numbers of great planters, who have many ſlaves, might be tempted to follow the example of thoſe, who, when the war firſt broke out, retired to Surinam, and ſettled under the protection of the Dutch. The third will proceed to the Eaſt-Indies, to recover any places that may be taken, and to repair the loſſes our company may have ſuſtained by the ſuperiority of the Engliſh in thoſe parts. You will eaſily judge, the putting our navy, which is ſo much ſhatter'd, even into a tolerable condition all at once, muſt be attended with a very large expence; yet the funds for this are already ſettled, and it is poſitively aſſerted, that there are ſtill in France a conſiderable number of rich merchants, who, in caſe thoſe funds ſhould prove deficient for the preſent, will advance what ſhall be neceſſary for theſe ſervices, as well for their own ſakes, as for that of the public. At a convenient ſeaſon I may poſſibly enlarge more upon this ſubject, to which the people in this country, of all ranks, ſhew an infinitely greater attention than at any time paſt; in which the Engliſh have been their maſters, and have taught them a leſſon, with reſpect to maritime power, which they are not likely to forget in haſte."

Paris, July 19. The detachments which marſhal Saxe had orders to draw from the army in the Low Countries, are deſigned to form the camp of Compeigne, which it is ſaid will conſiſt of between 25 and 30,000 men. And as a proof that the peace is not yet abſolutely concluded, it's aſſured that the troops of the king, notwithſtanding a ſuſpenſion of arms, will continue to encamp or canton in or upon the frontiers of the conquer'd countries. And this appears leſs doubtful to thoſe, who know, that four days before the departure of the king for Choiſy, M. d'Argenſon declared, that all the officers, without diſtinction, who had left the army, even by permiſſion of M. Saxe, were to repair as ſoon as poſſible to their corps; unleſs unleſs detained at court, or at Paris, by expreſs command of the king.

The report of his moſt Chriſtian majeſty's having ordered a reform in his army, does not prove in any reſpect to be true; on the contrary, the colonels have been expreſsly enjoined to recompleat their regiments with all diligence; to this end recruits are continually raiſing in Paris, and throughout the kingdom, many of which are preſs'd, and all are obliged to march without exception.

The great people here begin again to ſet up M. Saxe as a candidate for the duchy of Courland; and it is aſſured, that if M. de la Salle had not happened to have been arreſted at Dantzick, and ſome reflections thereupon made on the court, his majeſty would unqueſtionably have ſent a perſon of high rank ambaſſador to the empreſs of Ruſſia, in the place of M. d'Alion, not ſo much with a view to treat upon the ſubject of commerce at the court of Peterſburg, as to diſpoſe the Ruſſian miniſtry in favour of marſhal Saxe. But that event has greatly diſconcerted meaſures to the prejudice of the intereſt of the marſhal.

Marſhal Lowendahl will ſoon take a trip to Compiegne for a few days, to have ſome plan of operations approved by his majeſty; the nature of which is paſt the comprehenſion of the public, who are taught to expect nothing but peace, tho' they have nothing but equivocal ſigns to judge by.

LONDON.

Whitehall, July 2. This morning arrived from Hanover, his majeſty's ratification of his acceptance of the acceſſion of the court of Spain, and the republic of Genoa, to the preliminary articles ſigned at Aix la Chapelle, the 28 of June, N. S. 1748.

London, July 12. Yeſterday it was reported, that there was an account come over land, that admiral Griffin had taken Pondicherry in the Eaſt-Indies, which we wiſh may prove true. This gentleman, by the preliminaries, has 'til October next to make repriſals; and admiral Boſcawen is expected to join him in Auguſt next; ſo that it is not doubted but they will take other French ſettlements in thoſe parts, before that time expires.

July 14. Yeſterday, about 4 o' clock in the afternoon, ſeventeen waggons laden with money, guarded by ſailors, came to the Bank in Threadneedle ſtreet from Portſmouth; the money was brought from Jamaica in the Plymouth man of war, capt. Dent, for the uſe of the merchants of this city. Several other waggons were expected, laden with quickſilver, but they will not arrive 'til the beginning of next week.

An expreſs from count de Salleurs, the French ambaſſador at Conſtantinople, is arrived by the way of Poland, with diſpatches which his excellency has received from the Eaſt-Indies, by the way of Bagdat, concerning the expedition of the Engliſh againſt the town of Pondicherry. The contents are ſaid to be, that the Engliſh have made themſelves maſters of the place, and entirely plunder'd and ruin'd it, in the ſame manner as M. de la Bourdennay dealt by Madraſs.

By the paying off ſeveral men of war lately, the wages are fallen in the merchants ſervice from 50 s. to 23 s. per month.

A number of bills have been already poſted up at the Royal Exchange, for ſhips bound to Spain; which has given great ſatisfaction to the generality of people in trade.

July 18. On Monday laſt her grace the ducheſs of Newcaſtle landed at Calais, on her journey to the ſouth of France; on her landing the great guns were fired from the ramparts, and part of the garriſon were drawn out under arms, and lin'd the ſtreets to her grace's lodgings; near which, in the market-place, ſeveral more cannon were drawn out and fired, and a guard was placed at her lodging, to do duty during her ſtay there.

On Wedneſday Thomas Anſon, Eſq; and ſeveral other Engliſh gentlemen, arrived in town from Holland; they came by way of Calais, and were much ſurpriz'd at the great reſpect the French paid them in all places through which they paſſed in the territories of France.

'Tis reported that Mr. Keene, the Britiſh miniſter at Liſbon, will ſpeedily return to Madrid, in order to terminate by a private convention whatever concerns the two crowns.

July 23. It is ſaid the duties on coaches, chariots, and chaiſes, with other carriages, amounted laſt year to 57849 l. which is upwards of 2000 l. more than was raiſed in the former year. This plainly ſhews, that State, Pleaſure, and Luxury, increaſe rather than leſſen by Taxation.

July 25. It is ſaid the right hon. the lord Anſon will be appointed firſt commiſſioner of Trade and Plantations, in the room of lord Monſon, deceaſed.

Paſſports are come over from Spain, ſigned the 6th of July, N. S. by his moſt Catholic majeſty; but ſhips will not go to trade with Spain 'til the beginning of Auguſt next: in the mean time paſſports are proviſionally come from Madrid, in which the ſhips that are going to ports in other kingdoms, &c. are permitted to go into any Spaniſh ports unmolelled, to be provided, if in neceſſity, with water, proviſions, repairs, &c.

July 27. Yeſterday in the afternoon arrived a mail from France,——the firſt ſince the commencement of the war with that nation.

Letters from Amſterdam, and other places, ſay, that the general peace was ſigned the 17th inſtant, by the reſpective miniſters at Aix la Chapelle.

Letters from the Hague informs us, that the people expect with the utmoſt impatience to ſee the ſtructure of their new conſtitution entirely finiſhed, in which they look for a great deliverance as heretofore they met with in caſting off the Spaniſh yoke. According to the beſt computations that can be made, the late taxes upon conſumption amounted to better than a third part of the coſt even of the neceſſaries of life, notwithſtanding which the ſtate did not receive a full fifty, in other words, the exciſes amounted to ſeven ſtivers in a ſtorin, of which four went into the Coffers of the Republick, and the other three--------dropt by the way. As for the poor people who were ſhot by the Burghers, their number is much ſhort of what was at firſt reported, and ſome ſay that all the lives loſt in theſe diſturbances do not exceed twenty, others ſay not half ſo many.

We hear from the Hague, that their high Mightineſſes have reſolved to unite the poſts of captain and admiral general of the union to that of ſtadtholder, and to render them hereditary in the ſerene houſe of Orange. The commiſſaries of France and of the republick, have actually ſigned a convention or cartel, for the reſtitution of priſoners taken by ſea.

Auguſt 2. According to letters from Bergen-op zoom of the 5th of Auguſt, N. S. they had 1700 ſick ſoldiers in the hoſpitals of that town, 400 of whom they have ſent to Antwerp by the waggons that brought them the laſt ſupply of proviſions and warlike ſtores. Theſe letters add, that the garriſon of that place was to be relieved in a few days by a body of 4000 freſh troops; tho' it is ſtill given out, that the French will ſpeedily evacuate the conquer'd towns.

We hear that ſeveral men of war are ordered to ſail for Cape-Breton, in order to carry the forces belonging to the Engliſh out of that iſland to Annapolis-Royal.

Laſt Wedneſday a meſſenger was diſpatched from the ſecretary's office to the court of France, being the firſt ſent thither ſince the commencement of the war.

It is confidently reported, that peace will be proclaimed with France and Spain on Tueſday the 11th of October next, being the day of his majeſty's coronation.

They write from Leghorn of the 4th of July, that within a week, no leſs than twenty prizes had been ſent into that port by the Engliſh.

NEW-YORK, September 26.

Laſt tueſday arrived here from a cruize, the privateer Brigt Heſter, capt. Robert Troup commander, of this port, with two prizes; one a Spaniſh privateer Brigt. of 16 carriage guns, and the other the ſhip Hawk, late capt. Vance (mounting 18 carriage guns, and had 35 men when engaged) bound from Philadelphia for Barbados, who was taken by ſaid Spaniſh privateer. Captain Troup fell in with them both the 29th of Auguſt, about 15 leagues off the Havanna; and tho' the Spaniard alone was ſuperior in force to the Heſter, yet captain Troup engaged them both very ſmartly for four glaſſes, and then clapt the Spaniard a-board, where he ſoon convinced him, as he had done monſ. Latouch ſome time before, that Britiſh bravery will always prevail, when put in competition with French or Spaniards; Captain Troup was the firſt man that boarded the enemy, four of whom he ſlew with his own hands, before they ſtruck. The gunners mate, tho' he had a muſket ball in his body, and run thro' the ſide with a dart, was the ſecond on board; and the ſecond lieutenant had his right hand ſhot off in the beginning of the engagement, notwithſtanding which he did not quit the deck till the fight was over. Before captain Troup boared, his ammunition of all kinds was ſpent, as was likewiſe that of the enemy. The Heſter had 4 men killed, and 26 wounded, ſome of them pretty bad; and the Spaniard upwards of 30 killed, and 67 wounded; ſhe is called the Anna Maria, Don Joſeph Alverto commander, had one hundred and twenty men, and belonged to the Havanna, where ſhe was going with her prize, which has upwards of ſixteen hundred barrels of flour on board, but is happily brought to a better market: This Spaniſh privateer was formerly called the Grand Diable, and was taken from the Spaniards by the Greyhound and Dragon privateers of this port; she then sailed from hence as a merchantman, and was again taken by the Spaniards. The Hester has reigned happily and successfully ever since before the French war; she went first against the Spaniards, and has finished the war with a stroke on the same nation: She always turned out like a Jonathan's sword, for she never went out against her enemies in vain: She has had in that time several commanders, all still living; but without disparagement to any, capt. Troup may justly be said to have distinguished himself for the publick good more than any privateer of his force, he having taken in her four of the enemies privateers, whereof two were superior to himself; and this last must be esteemed as brave an action as any in the whole course of the war.

Sept. 26. On Sunday the 18th instant the snow Noble Jane, capt. Park, of Scarborough, bound from Patuxent in Maryland for London, laden with Tobacco, was cast away on the East-Bank: She had sprung a leak eleven days before at sea, and was endeavouring to get in here to stop it; she had seven feet water in her hold when she struck, which rose to her main beam before the captain and crew quitted her, and it was with difficulty they then sav'd their lives. They are still in hopes of saving the part of her cargo between decks.
